Prayers and Intercessions

Priest: Christ is the image of the unseen God and all things are to be reconciled through him because he made peace by his death on the cross. We pray to him.

Reader: We have been baptized into the Lord's death and resurrection.

R. May we, the Body of Christ, be cleansed of greed and envy, and be clothed in the strength and gentleness of the Lord's love.

Reader: We have been sealed with the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

R. Confirm us in your service, and help us to bear witness to you in the society in which we live.

Reader: Before you suffered, you longed to eat the Passover with your disciples.

R. As we take part in the Eucharist, on this day of rest and resurrection, may we reach out to others who are sick and lonely.

Reader: We hold up in prayer this day those who are in any kind of need.

R. Though our prayer and love, may give new hope to those who are living in darkness and discouragement.

Reader: You continue to work in your faithful people.

R. We pray for the dead, passed beyond life's care, especially for Alan Patrick Buggy, Fr Brian Ebert, Mimmi Velona, Michael Flynn, Francis Barry, Domenico Morabito and Maureen Hillard who died recently.

Priest: Lord, these prayers, spoken and unspoken, we make through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time Year B

28 and 29 September 2024

Dear Parishioners,

We are in the middle of a challenging section of the Gospel of Mark. Jesus makes three predictions of his suffering, death and resurrection, and the disciples don't seem to have a clue – a bit like ourselves, I suppose.

It is good to remember that it is God who is doing the challenging, so he will give us all that we need to meet the challenge.

Jesus focuses our attention on how we engage our freedom in the pursuit of truth and love. The images are graphic, to get us thinking:

If your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out. Better for you to enter into the Kingdom of God with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into Gehenna, where 'their worm does not die, and the fire is not quenched.'

Our choices have eternal consequences – either heaven or hell – but of course we find it hard to face the truth, perhaps not realising the gravity of our God-given freedom:

Many of those who teach or catechise seem reluctant to comment on this most crucial perspective (Mary Healy, Gospel of Mark, p.192).

God does not send people to heaven or hell. No, rather people choose their own destiny, forging their path as life unfolds.

St. John Henry Newman (1801-1890) affirmed that some people – hopefully just a few – really can't stand God (and his presence) and so make their own lonely choice.

C.S.Lewis (1898-1963) makes the telling comment:

There are only two kinds of people in the end: those who say to God, 'Thy will be done,' and those to whom God says, in the end, 'Thy will be done (The Great Divorce, p.72-73).

Our hope is deepened, when we realise that our freedom is a great gift and the mercy of God an even greater gift:

God never ceases to hold out his unfathomable mercy, even at the very moment when a person steps over the threshold into eternity (p.192).

It was St. Francis de Sales (1567-1622) who said:

I'd sooner be judged by God than by my own mother.

Let's hang on to that!

Father Tony

Entrance Antiphon

All that you have done to us, O Lord, you have done with true judgement, for we have sinned against you and not obeyed your commandments. But give glory to your name and deal with us according to the bounty of your mercy.

First Reading

A reading from the book of Numbers

The Lord came down in the Cloud. He spoke with Moses, but took some of the spirit that was on him and put it on the seventy elders. When the spirit came on them they prophesied, but not again.

Two men had stayed back in the camp; one was called Eldad and the other Medad. The spirit came down on them; though they had not gone to the Tent, their names were enrolled among the rest. These began to prophesy in the camp. The young man ran to tell this to Moses, 'Look', he said, 'Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.' Then said Joshua the son of Nun, who had served Moses from his youth, 'My Lord Moses, stop them!' Moses answered him, 'Are you jealous on my account? If only the whole people of the Lord were prophets, and the Lord gave his Spirit to them all!'

Responsorial Psalm

(R.) The precepts of the Lord give joy to the heart.

Second Reading

A reading from the letter of St James

An answer for the rich. Start crying, weep for the miseries that are coming to you. Your wealth is all rotting, your clothes are all eaten up by moths. All your gold and your silver are corroding away, and the same corrosion will be your own sentence, and eat into your body. It was a burning fire that you stored up as your treasure for the last days. Labourers mowed your fields, and you cheated them – listen to the wages that you kept back, calling out; realise that the cries of the reapers have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts. On earth you have had a life of comfort and luxury; in the time of slaughter you went on eating to your heart's content. It was you who condemned the innocent and killed them; they offered you no resistance.

Gospel Acclamation

Alleluia, alleluia!
Your word, O Lord, is truth:
make us holy in the truth.
Alleluia!

Gospel

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Mark

John said to Jesus, 'Master, we saw a man who is not one of us casting out devils in your name; and because he was not one of us we tried to stop him.' But Jesus said, 'You must not stop him: no one who works a miracle in my name is likely to speak evil of me. Anyone who is not against us is for us.

'If anyone gives you a cup of water to drink just because you belong to Christ, then I tell you solemnly, he will most certainly not lose his reward.

'But anyone who is an obstacle to bring down one of these little ones who have faith, would be better thrown into the sea with a great millstone round his neck. And if your hand should cause you to sin, cut it off; it is better for you to enter into life crippled, than to have two hands and go to hell, into the fire that cannot be put out. And if your foot should cause you to sin, cut it off; it is better for you to enter into life lame, than to have two feet and be thrown into hell. And if your eye should cause you to sin, tear it out; it is better for you to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye, than to have two eyes and be thrown into hell where their worm does not die nor their fire go out.'

Communion Antiphon

By this we came to know the love of God: that Christ laid down his life for us; so we ought to lay down our lives for one another.
